Galen USA Showcases Tomato Specialties and Mediterranean Sourcing at PLMA 2026

Retail, foodservice and ingredient solutions, with sourcing opportunities across the Mediterranean.

HOUSTON, TEXAS - Galen USA Corporation will showcase its tomato portfolio at PLMA 2026, inviting retailers, distributors, foodservice operators and food manufacturers to explore private label products and discuss sourcing needs across a wider range of Mediterranean specialties.

The portfolio spans shelf-stable and frozen formats, bringing together retail-ready products, foodservice packs and bulk ingredients:

Sun-dried tomatoes: Salted and sulphured options; ready-to-eat halves, julienne and diced cuts in vacuum packs and pouches; and tomatoes packed in oil in jars.
Tomato bruschetta: Classic, hot pepper and olive varieties for private label retail programs and foodservice applications.
IQF oven semi-dried tomatoes: Tomato wedges, cherry tomato halves, low-moisture segments and diced 20 x 20 mm options for prepared foods, sauces, pizzas, salads and other applications.

Beyond tomatoes, Galen USA welcomes sourcing inquiries for Mediterranean specialties such as olives, peppers, artichokes and capers. The team is open to discussing additional categories and matching buyer requirements with suitable suppliers, product formats and packaging options.

Based in Houston, Galen USA is the U.S. sales office of BGC Tarim Gida, a food manufacturer based in Izmir, Turkey, with production facilities in Bergama. The company combines access to manufacturing with U.S. customer support and warehousing to serve retail, foodservice and industrial programs.

PLMA attendees are invited to meet the Galen USA team to review samples, explore recipe and packaging requirements, and discuss tomato products and broader Mediterranean sourcing opportunities.
